The screenshot shows a web browser window for the Denver Public Library's website. The title bar reads "DPL: About Us - Mission & Organization". The address bar shows the URL "Http://www.denver.lib.us/About_Us/DPL_Mission.html". The page header includes the library's logo, navigation links for Catalogs, My Library Card, and Search the Internet, and search fields for "Find It Fast" and "Choose A Category". Below the header is a "PARTY PARTS" graphic. A horizontal menu bar features links for "@ DPL", "E-Branch", "Wow! Kids", "Locations & Hours", "Ask Us", and "About Us" (which is highlighted in blue). A secondary menu bar below the first includes links for "Mission & Organization", "DPL Facts & Figures", "DPL History", "Press Kit", and "How You Can Help the Library". The main content area is titled "Mission & Organization". It features a photograph of children reading books and a statement: "The mission of the Denver Public Library is to help the people of our community to achieve their full potential." Below this, four descriptive terms are listed: Actions, Means, Values, and Style, each with a brief definition. A sidebar on the left contains a photograph of people and the word "Organization". The bottom of the page has a note about file opening and a copyright notice.
